Jail Pair In Attack On Officer

Torrance police jailed two men Sunday evening on charges of battery of a police officer and resisting arrest after the two apparently turned on an officer who had stopped them for a traffic violation.

Booked at the Torrance City Jail were Ronald R. Sanger, 23, of 16900 Crenshaw Blvd., Apt. 15, and Martin M. Agundez, 24, of 16919 Harbor Blvd., Gardena.

They are accused of attacking Officer Larry P. Bloise of the Torrance Police Department about 6:45 p.m. Sunday.

THE TWO men were subdued with the aid of an off-duty Los Angeles policeman and two guards from a nearby industrial plant.

Police gave this account: Bloise halted a car on Western Avenue near 190th Street for a traffic violation. Agundez was identified as the driver. Bloise said he thought the car was too low to the ground and was measuring it when a passenger got out and began verbally harassing him.

The officer said he warned the man, who was identified as Sanger, then grabbed him. Sanger reportedly struck Bloise repeatedly.

AT THAT point, T. M. Valencia, a Los Angeles policeman, stopped to aid Bloise and Agundez apparently became involved in the incident. Valencia, who was off-duty at the time, pulled his gun. Two guards from the Harvey Aluminum plant, Genero Mendoza and Elmer Garrison arrived and Mendoza fired a shot into the air.

The gunfire startled Sanger and Bloise was able to subdue him with the aid of Mendoza and Garrison.

Bloise was sent to Little Company of Mary Hospital for treatment, then sent home. Sanger and Agundez were taken to the Torrance City Jail.
